Destroy Each Other
But Not the Earth
Ole Man River

All these political and news-paper "experts" had me worried for a while, but everything's all right now — a man who certainly ought to know has just said what he thinks about the Hydrogen Bomb.

The man is Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winner, one of the world's greatest scientists, who retired to Pasadena, Cal. On the occasion of his 82nd birthday yesterday he said:

1. It's doubtful if men can make a hydrogen bomb.
2. And even if they can, no man-made device is going to blow up the earth.
3. "I think," said Millikan, "it would take a warmer lady than Mother Earth to make such a horror possible."

As the great scientist resolves matters, the hydrogen bomb is just another of a long line of projects men have designed to destroy one another — but only God, who by his own devices created the earth, will in his own good time destroy it.

I know this information is a blow to the writers for the Sunday pictorials, and the scary-harries in Washington — but to me it is a fine and dignified statement. It dignifies science as an exact art, admitting there are mysteries which science hasn't solved and perhaps never will; and it dignifies men, representing them truthfully for what they are, merely God's creatures walking around the green pastures of the earth and holding no more real power over the destiny of the globe than the other creatures around us.

I trust you didn't miss that small item at the bottom of Page One in yesterday's paper: "Texarkana May Get Few Students From Hempstead."

It appears that there used to be a schoolhouse named Simms, located between Old River and Red River, in Hempstead county. But Ole Man River changed his channel, Simms schoolhouse was cut off from Hempstead — and the kids went to school in Texarkana.

The school district was named Harvey, and after the switch in the river channel it was taken over by the Texarkana district as a matter of apportioned geography — kids not being able to swim the river in order to go to a Hempstead county school.

Just another chapter in the career of Red River, one of the longest and most changeable river in the world.

Memphis, Tenn., March 23 — (AP) — Apparently the often-lost, seldom-remembered game of "Russian roulette" has taken the life of Thomas Jerome Odum, 26.

The Memphis beer salesman was found dead at the home of H. L. Forrester Tuesday night.

Inspector Peet Wiebenga, chief of the homicide bureau, said Forrester told him this story:

Forrester and Odum went to Forrester's home after drinking beer. Forrester showed Odum a gun he had in his home. Forrester said as he left the room, Odum said, "Let's play Russian roulette." Forrester reported he returned just in time to see Odum shoot himself.

The procedure in "Russian roulette" is to put one cartridge in a pistol, put it to the head spin the chamber and pull the trigger. The gambler comes in seeing if the hammer falls on an empty chamber.

Price Support
Compromise
Irks Republicans

Washington, March 23 — (AP) — A new senate-house price supports compromise ran into heavy criticism today from northern senators who said it favors the south.

"I don't know why any northerner would vote for it," said Senator Young (R-Nd.).

As approved by a conference committee yesterday, the emergency farm measure would:

1. Tighten price supports for potatoes this year and drop them entirely after this year unless rigid controls operated.

2. Allow price supports on 1,200,000 acres of cotton over a previous allotment of 21,000,000 acres.

3. Allow peanut growers 100,000 more acres above a previous allotment of 2,100,000 acres and also permit excess peanuts to be grown for oil or other uses, without penalties, under certain conditions.

The measure was the second compromise worked out by the conferees after two weeks of work.

The first bill was sent back when Senator Anderson (D-NM) observed that one of its provisions was included in neither the original house nor senate measures.

The disputed section — which would have allowed wheat farmers who lost winter crops through damage by "greenbugs" to replace two acres of wheat by one of cotton — was not in the bill which the conferees group whipped into shape in a few hours yesterday.

The farmers affected by the greenbug section are largely in Oklahoma.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), who headed the house delegation on the committee, said he planned to bring the compromise up for a vote today.

The house also scheduled action on a measure increasing the capitalization of the commodity credit corporation by $2,000,000,000 to meet the needs of next year's price support program. That would boost the capitalization of this agriculture department agency to a total of $6,750,000,000.

Ft. Roots Probe Is Invited
Little Rock, March 23 — (UP) — An investigation of personnel at the Ft. Roots Veterans hospital was planned today with the approval of Dr. H. W. Sterling, hospital manager.

The investigation following charges of "intimidation" by officers of the Eberhart-American Legion post in Little Rock.

A. K. Johnson, commander of the post, said some of the personnel were being fired to satisfy the whims of the director of nursing service and an assistant personnel director.

A joint statement issued last night by Dr. Sterling and Johnson stated that the complaints would be studied "in detail." It did not mention what remedial action would be taken.

But Dr. Sterling said that he welcomes the investigation.

"I am ready to sit down and talk it over any time," the hospital manager commented.

The plan was to call in employees and former employees to confirm the intimidation charges. Dr. Sterling said that the jobs or employment rights of employee witnesses would not be jeopardized by their testimony.

He said, however, that the charge came as a complete surprise although it has been known that a personnel reduction must be made to conform with federal orders.

Johnson said the charges grew out of "numerous complaints" at the hospital against two physicians, the chief nurse and the personnel section.

Blevins Junior Play to Be Given April 7
The Blevins Junior play "The Slow-Poke" will be presented in the Blevins Gymnasium Friday night, April 7. The curtain will open at 8 o'clock.

One of the main characters, "Buzz" Jenkins — a bachelor, in the sole support of his blind mother. His brother John is a drunkard. John's wife, Elizabeth, a lovable character, Buzz has a beautiful crop out on the farm, but the elements work against him. A bolt of lightning takes the life of one of the characters.

Flashes of lightning, cracks of thunder and roaring wind add tenseness to the play.

The public is invited to attend this play for a full evening's entertainment.

WHOSE "OSCAR" — Aircraft worker Bruce Kierman, 20, shows newsmen his "Oscar" but he didn't win it for acting. He found it in a rubbish pile when he was 11 or 12 years old, then forgot about it. Two years ago Kierman wrote to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences to find the rightful owner. The Academy demanded the Oscar be given up but Bruce didn't hand over the award. As Academy Award time rolls around again, Bruce is still curious to know who lost, or threw away, the coveted trophy. (NEA Telephoto)

Magic Show Here Tonight at 8 o'Clock
Tonight the people of Hope will have a chance to see an outstanding magic show when Dr. Gaffney brings his troupe to the High school auditorium at 8 p.m.

This show is guaranteed to be the best magic show ever to appear in Hope. Ordinarily Dr. Gaffney is booked for much larger cities.

Dr. Gaffney admits that he does not possess any supernatural powers but rather that he has showmanship. This plus his natural skill adds up to a delightful and magnificent performance that will delight the young, the old and mastered the art of illusion and the in-between.

The panoramic phantasmagoria that will appear before your eyes consists of the vanishing business wherein an adult human being is made to disappear right before your eyes; a human body is made to float in thin air with hoops passed over her body to prove that no wires are attached; rabbits appear from hats and flowers spring forth from all over the stage.

The tickets you purchase will furnish you with two solid hours of entertainment unlike any that you have ever enjoyed before. Not only will you benefit by your purchase of tickets but some child that needs eye care will also benefit. Strangers in Hope will benefit because street markers are there to guide them. The Boy Scouts will benefit by having an expensive bar-be-cue machine added to their cabin.

Remember tonight at 8 p.m. High school auditorium — your chance to see big time magic.

Those making the trip from Hope were: Dorsey McRae, Jr., Chester Hunt, Harry Hawthorne, Cecil Bittle, Claude Sutton and Charles A. Armitage.

Housing Defeat
Looms as Big
Political Issue

Washington, March 23 — (AP) — Thrown out of congress in a defeat for President Truman, the $2,000,000,000 co-operative housing program bounced back today as a warm political issue.

Ignoring a personal plea from the President the house rejected the co-op idea for middle income housing last night 218 to 155. It

Five Arkansans
Vote With Majority
Washington, March 23 — (AP) — Five Arkansans representatives voted yesterday with the house majority which adopted an amendment to the administration's housing bill eliminating the co-operative provision which President Truman sought.

The other two — Reps. Mills and Trimble — voted against the amendment.

Those voting for the amendment: Reps. Gathings, Harris, Hays, Norrell and Tackett.

then went on to approve 361 to 10 a $4,000,000-plus expansion of the existing program.

The senate turned thumbs down on the co-op plan last week, 43 to 38. A house-senate conference committee now will work out a compromise housing bill — without the co-op program.

But the President's lieutenants in congress served notice that co-op housing forthwith is a political issue for the November congressional elections. And it may get high billing in Mr. Truman's rear platform speeches when he makes a swing to the West Coast this spring.

Over Jeers rising from the Republican side of the house, Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts shouted:

"You may fool the public today, but not next November. This is going to be a live issue — an issue which I hope will be used advantageously next fall."

He accused Republicans of "voting one way and talking the other."

In the house showdown 81 Democrats joined 137 Republicans to strike down the co-op proposal. Supporting the plan were 141 Democrats, 13 Republicans and the one American Labor party member.

The defeated co-op section proposed the creation of a $2,000,000,000 government corporation. It would have borrowed its money from the public, except for $100,000,000 contributed by the government.

Then it would have lent money at 3 per cent interest to co-ops and other non-profit organizations that

Spraying to Be Confined to
S. Hempstead

Due to a reduction in Federal funds the Arkansas State Board of Health DDT spraying campaign or malaria control in Hempstead county will not be carried on over the entire county as it was in 1949. Only the southwestern section of Hempstead county which is known to be the most malarious section will be sprayed with DDT.

In addition to DDT a chemical called chlorian will be used on front and back porches and in outbuildings during this season.

It is hoped that this chemical will be more effective against flies. The charge for spraying this season will be the same as 1949 — $2. per house and a sliding scale of from 50 cent up for outbuildings.

Conciliators
Try Again on Chrysler

Detroit, March 23 — (AP) — Conciliators made another try today at getting Chrysler Corp. and the CIO United Auto Workers on common ground to end a 58-day-old strike over pensions.

Chrysler and the union rejected one another's proposals yesterday for a settlement.

The mediators said in a statement, however, the proposals are still under discussion. Another bargaining session was called for today.

Federal Mediator E. M. Sweeney and Noel Fox, chairman of the state labor mediation board, attempted to get the company and the union together on a settlement at a four and half hour session yesterday.

Sweeney said proposals exchanged Tuesday were not acceptable to either side. He said "the conciliators have requested the parties to refrain from publicizing the proposals for the time being."

It was reported unofficially that Chrysler's latest offer would provide for the earmarking of reserves sufficient to guarantee $10 monthly pensions for life, including federal social security, for workers at retirement age. The company proposal was said to be linked to a demand that the new contract run for 10 years.

The workers struck Jan. 25 for a 10-cent hourly package to include seven cents for pensions and three cents for health insurance. The company refused a union demand to set up a pension trust fund and give the union a voice in administration of the plan.

Chief of Police Clarence Baker and State Police Sergeant J. H. Porterfield left for the Texas town this morning to talk with the men in the hopes that other burglaries in this section might be solved.

He said one reason that Democrats have not rallied to defend Secretary of State Acheson against Republican attacks is that Acheson has remained aloof from the lawmakers.

Co-op Ark. Welcomes an Investigation
Washington, March 23 — (AP) — Thomas Fitzhugh, attorney for Arkansas Rural Electric Co-operative, says he would welcome an investigation of his connection with the wartime Ark-La power line in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

And Clyde T. Ellis, former Arkansas representative and now executive manager of the National Rural Electric Co-operative association, says any assertion that he personally profited from construction or operation of the line is "preposterous."

Names of the two were brought before a senate appropriations subcommittee by a fellow Arkansan, Rep. Boyd Tackett of Nashville.

To get the premeasurement survey Tuesday that Fitzhugh "got $30,000 at least" when the line was built in 1943 and $25,000 to $40,000 when it was sold.

The testimony was given at a closed session, but Tackett yesterday made public a transcript of his remarks.

The representative read letters taken from a senate hearing in 1944 from the then rural electrification administrator, Slattery, to former Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, now REA administrator, suggesting an investigation of the Ark-La contracts.

Slattery wrote he was advised "from a reliable source that there was graft and collusion among the contractors." He added that Clyde T. Ellis, Thomas Fitzhugh and others benefited by these transactions.

Fitzhugh, a one-time assistant Arkansas attorney general and chairman of the state Democratic committee, said he "would welcome a complete investigation of my representation of Ark-La. x x x"

Truman Attitude
Hurts Security
Says McCarthy

Washington, March 23 — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) today accused President Truman of endangering the nation's security by what he called the President's "arrogant refusal" to release government loyalty files to senate investigators.

Actually, Mr. Truman has not thus far refused to turn the files over to the senate foreign relations subcommittee which is looking into McCarthy's charges that Communists and "fellow travelers" have infiltrated the state department.

High White House sources have said the President is considering approval of limited access to the loyalty records of persons whom McCarthy has accused.

A key Democratic House senator termed McCarthy's criticism of Mr. Truman "unfair and unjustified." He said that I can't think of a fitting reply. He withheld use of his name, but added:

"Let the American people be the judge of that kind of criticism of the President of the United States."

Senator Tydings (D-Md.), chairman of the inquiry committee, said he had "absolutely no comment" on McCarthy's remarks.

The Wisconsin Republican made his blunt attack on Mr. Truman in a telegram to the vacationing President at Key West, Fla.

"I feel," McCarthy told Mr. Truman, "that your delay of this investigation by your arrogant refusal to release all necessary files is irresponsible and endangering the security of the nation."

McCarthy noted that the senate in voting to investigate the charges of Reds in the state department gave the inquiry committee power to subpoena the loyalty files of persons against whom he brought charges.

The senate, McCarthy added, was not requesting from the President any records which he would withhold. But he said:

"The investigation of the Reds in the state department is entitled to under the constitution." He added:

"It should be significant to you that not even one Democratic vote against the resolution providing for the subpoena of the files."

McCarthy's wire appeared to give the impression that Mr. Truman has ignored a subpoena of the files. The committee has issued one so far.

Senator Hickenlooper, of Iowa, one of the Republican members, has demanded that the subpoena power be used.

Tydings has said he prefers to first to get the records on a voluntary basis. He has said he will resort to a subpoena if that fails, but he also has declared that the legal precedent is against forcing the President to yield the files.

In the past Mr. Truman has refused to give congressional committees access to confidential loyalty records. In this case he has been reported willing to work out some sort of arrangement for a strict examination of the documents by the members of the inquiry group.

Two days ago McCarthy, at a secret session, gave the committee the name of a man he said he believed was a spy.

McCarthy's wire appeared to suggest the man — now not identified publicly — was a member of the state department.

Can Arrange Cotton Land Measurement
Hempstead county cotton growers can arrange for official measurement of their 1949 cotton acreage allotment prior to planting time, the County Production and Marketing Administration committee announced this week.

To get a premeasurement, a grower is being provided with a cost basis. Cotton farmers must file a written request with the county FMA office prior to April 15, says Earl Martin, county chairman. The rate charged for the service in Hempstead county has been established at $3. per farm plus $1.00 per acre of his allotment. Payment based on this rate must be made at the time the request for measurement is filed.

"The premeasurement is optional," says Mr. Martin, "and is offered as a service to growers who prefer to have an official measurement to use as a guide."

The chairman explained that cotton acreage in the county will be measured at two places after the cotton is planted to determine the amount of acreage. A grower who chooses to have a premeasurement will have the acreage measured at the time of planting.

A program committee was chosen to plan a program for the next meeting. The committee consists of: Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Adams.

Census Form Being Mailed to Farm Area

Washington, March 23 — (AP) — The 1950 census-taking job started in earnest today as postal carriers began distributing farm census forms in rural area mail boxes over much of the nation.

Postal carriers will deliver, because of the complexity of tenant and landlord relationships, were Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, the two Carolinas and a part of Arkansas.

Officials explained it is a widespread practice in those states for landlords alone to keep books on tenants and characterize farm operations.

Farm census data will be gathered orally in those states when the census bureau's enumerators begin taking the general population and housing figures, April 1.

Farmers elsewhere who receive farm census forms by mail are requested to fill out the answers and turn in the complete forms to enumerators when they arrive with population questions next month.

The general population and housing census is scheduled to take about two weeks in the cities and three to four weeks in the rural areas where more ground must be covered.

Distribution of farm census forms is to continue through next Monday.

There are more than 300 questions on the farm census form but only about 37 of them are "basic" questions which every farmer must answer.

One who merely grows wheat for instance, will not need to answer any of the questions about cotton or "goats, rabbits and fur animals in captivity."

The main farm census questions pertain to name, address, race, age, farm acreage whether rented or self-owned crops planted, livestock or poultry raised, farm equipment owned, etc.

Persons refusing to answer census questions can be fined $500 and jailed for 60 days.

The law forbids use of individual's answers for "purposes of taxation, investigation or regulation."

Census takers who violate the confidence of their informants are subject to fines up to $1,000 and two years imprisonment.

Hardie Triplets Go Home Aboard a Houseboat

Jonesville, La., March 23 — (AP) — The two-week-old Hardie triplets are at home today — but they aren't expecting many visitors.

Even the doctor who spent three days bringing them into the world isn't planning to go see the thriving babies.

"It would take me too far away from the clinic," said Dr. N. G. Nasif.

Home for the babies is a four-room houseboat, anchored two miles up the flood-swollen Ouachita river. They share it with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hardie, and seven other children.

Dr. Nasif said the three children, Jodie and his sisters Julia and Judy, have ceased to be a local attraction.

And even if people wanted to see them, they'd have to go to a lot of trouble, the doctor said.

"People would have to get a boat to get to the Hardie home," he said.

Dr. Nasif said each of the babies has gained a pound. Jodie, born March 7, weighs six pounds; Julia, born the next day, weighs seven. And Julia born March 9 is the heaviest at eight pounds.

Says St. Peter Buried on Church Site

New York, March 23 — (AP) — Ten years of digging in long-hidden graves below St. Peter's church has yielded archeological evidence supporting the Roman Catholic belief that St. Peter was buried on that site, Life magazine reports today.

In connection with the publication of first pictures on the excavations, the magazine prints an article by Msgr. Ludwig Kaas, administrator of St. Peter's, telling how Vatican workmen plumbed the unexplored lower passages beneath the nave of the world's largest church.

They penetrated into a pagan cemetery buried for 16 centuries. Msgr. Kaas does not say the excavations launched in 1939 resulted in finding relics of the chief apostle, but he asserts a scientific commission is analyzing discoveries who give archeological support to Catholic tenets.

Pope Pius XII said more than a year ago, without going into detail, that archeological discoveries demonstrated the apostle's burial place "is and was under the cupola of St. Peter's church." The pope may announce details of the findings in the course of this Catholic Holy Year.

Msgr. Kaas says in Life: "For the time being the discoveries which were made in the central area below the main altar of St. Peter's must remain undisclosed. x x x The last word belongs to science and cannot be anticipated."

"At the present time a commission of reputable archeologists is preparing the publication of its scientific conclusions on the discoveries to which some newspapers have already made inexact reference. In the meantime one may observe that the excavations have confirmed convincingly the Roman tradition which closely connected Nero's Circus and the Vatican burial ground — or, in other words, the place where St. Peter was executed and the place where he was buried. Nonbelievers may not view this affirmation in the same light as devout Catholics. Yet it is obvious that the archeological evidence for the contrary is so faithful a right to challenge non-undertook home building for families with incomes from $2,800 to $4,400. The mortgages could have run as long as 83 years.

The opposition shouted that the plan was socialistic and that it discriminated against veterans. They said the scheme would provide homes for only three per cent of the 8,000,000 middle-income families and that those who got out of homes never would be free from some sort of government supervision.

Ex-Arkansas House Speaker Succumbs

Little Rock, March 23 — (AP) — Horace Allen Northcutt, Salem attorney and former speaker of the Arkansas house of representatives, died in a Little Rock hospital today. He was 67.

A cerebral hemorrhage was given as the cause of death. Northcutt was stricken in Salem Tuesday and was brought to the hospital yesterday.

Active in politics for 25 years, Northcutt was speaker of the house in 1945.

One of his sons, Hern Northcutt, is director of the Arkansas legislative council and a former attorney for the state revenue department.

Other survivors include: the widow, another son, Penrod of Rolla, Mo., a daughter Bess O. Northcutt of Little Rock and three sisters Okey Northcutt, Springfield, Mo., Mrs. W. W. Watson and Mrs. Bill Leachner, both of Mountain Grove Mo.

FHA Places Home Insurance on Ration Basis

Washington, March 23 — (AP) — The federal housing administration put insurance of home mortgages on a virtual rationing basis today as it neared the limit of the $8,750,000,000 it has for that purpose.

The FHA's action followed the federal national mortgage association's halt in purchasing of outstanding mortgages because it had almost exhausted its $2,500,000,000 authorization.

FHA officials said field offices over the country had been notified to stop making final commitments to insure mortgages, and to report applications here daily for clearance by headquarters.

Thus, they said, they are able to "ration" out remaining funds while congress is studying grant of new funds.

By controlling total insurance grants in the field and using an allocation system, they said, FHA should be able to continue making insurance commitments another "couple of weeks."

That in turn may be long enough for a senate-house agreement on the housing bill, which went to a conference committee today because of differences in bills passed by the two chambers.

Says Government Forced Witness to Testify

San Francisco, March 22 — (AP) — The Harry Bridges defense has charged the government forced at least one prosecution witness to testify under threat of exposure.

Attorney Vincent Hallinan, continuing his closing argument in the jury yesterday, identified this witness as Lawrence Seton Ross of Memphis, a professed ex-Communist, who testified he knew Bridges as a Communist.

Bridges, president of the CIO Longshoremen's union, is charged with perjuring himself by swearing in his 1945 naturalization hearing that he was not a Communist. Bridges repeated under oath at his trial that he isn't and never was a Communist.

Ross, a former Fort Smith and Russellville, Ark., news man, testified for the government that he was the son of a Virginia planner that he was born in Kentucky, had attended the university there.

Then, under defense cross-examination, the man known as Ross admitted he had lied — under the — on these points: His name was not Lawrence Seton Ross, it was Lipman Rosenstein; he was born in Poland, not in Kentucky; his father was a New York worker — not a plantation owner.

But he maintained, however, that he had been a top Communist, and knew Bridges to have been one.

Hallinan told the jury today that the government knew all along that Ross was Rosenstein; that immigration agents who enlisted witnesses against the Australian-born Bridges, knew it; that they forced Ross to testify, under threat of exposure. Hallinan called him an alien.

Confirmation of Murray Is Almost Sure

Washington, March 23 — (AP) — President Truman's appointment of Thomas E. Murray, New York engineer, to the atomic energy commission appeared likely today to meet with little opposition in the senate.

Many senators said they didn't know Murray personally, but thought his engineering, business and executive background qualified him for the post. There was no critical comment.

"I know him by reputation and his reputation is excellent," said Senator McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the senate-house atomic committee.

Clubs

Liberty Hill
Mrs. E. H. Byers led the discussion on child guidance when the club met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Light in March. What kind of books should children read? Should children feel their responsibility of helping to take care of their homes? Should parents apologize to their children when they find their wrong in some matter? These three questions made a very interesting discussion on this subject.

Mrs. C. W. Harrington, health and safety leader, gave an interesting talk on health and distributed leaflets concerning cancer. Other leaders reporting were Mrs. L. E. Huckabee, gardening, and Mrs. W. H. Light, poultry.

Mrs. Ivan Williams, president, announced plans for the amateur hour to be held in the near future. A committee composed of Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Carl Fuller, and Mrs. Irvin Betts, vice-president, announced about the cake walk to be held March 31 and asked the assistance of each member to make it a success. Ten cakes will be donated from this club.

Mrs. L. A. Davis, Mrs. W. H. Light, and Mrs. Alia Mae Starnes received birthday gifts this month. During recreation prizes were won by Mrs. S. C. Huckabee and Mrs. Clyde Huckabee.

Refreshments were served to nineteen members. Mrs. Blackwood four visitors, Mrs. Sid Anderson, Mrs. S. W. Williams, Mrs. Jewel Shields, Mrs. J. W. Hairston, and one new member, Mrs. Dorsey Betts.

The club adjourned to meet in April at the home of Mrs. Irvin Betts.

Hollywood Oscar Show Tonight

Hollywood, March 23 — (AP) — Oscar, still a little pale from last year's near demise, will make his 22nd appearance on schedule tonight.

Searchlights, stars, red carpets and all the conventional trappings of the annual motion picture academy awards have been assembled, yet the level of enthusiasm along "Cannery Row" is definitely substandard.

For a time, while major studios withheld monetary support, it appeared that the year pastowal of honors might pass into history but the producers finally came through with a financial shot in the arm for Oscar.

For the best picture of 1949 are "All the King's Men" (Columbia), "Battleground" (MGM), "The Heiress" (Paramount), "A Letter To Three Wives" (20th-Fox) and "Twelve O'Clock High" (20th-Fox). Best actress nominees are:

Jeanne Crain ("Pinky"), Olivia De Havilland ("The Heiress"), Susan Hayward ("My Foolish Heart"), Deborah Kerr ("Edward, My Son") and Loretta Young ("Come to the Stable").

Nominated for best actor are Broderick Crawford ("All the King's Men"), Kirk Douglas ("Champion"), Gregory Peck ("Twelve O'Clock High"), Richard Todd ("The Hasty Heart") and John Wayne ("The Sands of Iwo Jima").

Best supporting actress nominees are Ethel Barrymore ("Pinky"), Celeste Holm ("Come to the Stable"), Mercedes McCambridge ("All the King's Men"), Ethel Waters ("Pinky") and Elsa Lanchester ("Come to the Stable").

Nominees for best supporting actor are John Ireland ("All the King's Men"), Dean Jagger ("Twelve O'Clock High"), Arthur Kennedy ("Champion"), Ralph Richardson ("The Heiress") and James Whitmore ("Battleground").

Academy officials are somewhat disturbed by the likelihood that 20 per cent of the nominees will be absent, on location or abroad, when the ceremonies start at 11 p.m. EST in the 2000-seat RKO Pantages Theater.

However, all the principals in best actor and actress categories are expected to be present, with the possible exception of Richardson, who has been in England.

Arthur Hopkins Succumbs to Heart Ailment

New York, March 23 — (AP) — Arthur Hopkins, who produced or directed 80 plays during a long theatrical career on Broadway, died yesterday of a heart ailment. He was 71.

Hopkins went to work as a reporter after leaving high school; then did theater press agent work for a while, turned to theater production and became one of Broadway's leading producers. His career spanned 34 years and included some shows that made theater history.

His first production was a hit — "Poor Little Rich Girl" in 1913. And so was his last — "The Magnificent Yankee," a play based on the life of the late Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, in 1946.

Two Arkansas Schools Get High Rating

By The Associated Press
Two Arkansas colleges have been accredited tentatively by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

They are Arkansas Agricultural, Mechanical and Norall college (for Negroes) at Pine Bluff and the College of the Ozarks at Clarks-ville.

The North Central association establishes standards by which credits of member colleges are recognized by other member colleges.

A. M. and N. is a state-supported institution. Ozarks is supported by the Presbyterian church.

The association's commission on colleges and universities recommended at Chicago Wednesday that the two be accredited.

Final action is scheduled for Friday, but there is no expectation the commission will be overruled.

A. M. and N. has been working toward a accreditation since Dr. Lawrence A. Davis, then only 28, became President of the school in 1943.

Ozarks lost a previous accreditation in 1934 because of financial difficulties.

May Call in Hoover on NLB Dispute

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — Senator Taft said today that he would call in President Truman to demand that the National Labor Relations Board be abolished.

The Ohio Republican told a reporter he doesn't know Hoover's attitude toward the President's move, submitted to congress, in 12 of 21 government reorganization plans, hearings on the proposal probably will be held by the senate expenditures committee early in April.

The President's plan, in practical effect, would oust Robert N. Denham, NLB general counsel who has accused the board of pro-labor bias, and replace him with a counsel named by the board chairman, and subject to board control.

Taft left no doubt he is going all-out in an effort to defeat what he called a political move to amend the Taft-Hartley act after congress had failed to take any such action.

"He conceded, however, that it may be difficult to stop the plan, since voters in 48 states vote to defeat it. President Truman has a long record of support of the House of congress rejection of a constitutional majority of its members."

Taft said in a statement yesterday it seems to him the President's plan "is an attempt to use the Hoover report for political purposes and as a means of nullifying the labor-management relations

Writing 12,500 Jokes a Year Is Not Funny — Especially to the Man in the Business

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP) — When a man writes 12,500 jokes a year, he feels he ought to know why a thing is funny or not.

"But there are some things you just can't explain," said Walter Kiernan, a radio humorist who figures he has turned out some 75,000 gags in the last six years.

"Take the 'K' sound, for example. For some reason it is the funniest sound in the language. No one knows why. But all you have to do is say Brooklyn or Hoboken or Kalamazoo or Keokuk — and people start laughing."

"The first laugh Jack Benny ever got on the stage came when he stepped out and said, 'My name is Benny Kublesky' — which is his real name. But the audience died laughing."

Unfortunately, a jokesmith can't just keep saying "keokuk, keokuk, keokuk" like a flattened train.

spent Sunday and Monday in Little Rock.

Mrs. J. C. Stegar and Mrs. Rodney Hamilton were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Sam Grayson in Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Yancey of Pine Bluff were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Yancey and Mrs. Fay Ingram.

Ivan Harris of Pine Bluff spent the week-end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Grady Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McSwain had as their guest for the week-end their daughter Miss Ann McSwain of Memphis.

Mrs. Howard Terry and Miss Frances Terry of Conway visited Mrs. Clara B. Stone and Miss Luella Stone over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kelly of Waldron were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Hooks for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hawley, Miss Jimmie Nicholas and Miss Marguerite Avery were among those from Prescott who attended the horse show in Hot Springs Sunday.

Miss Carolyn Ella Murrah of Dallas and Jim Barnett of Waco were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Murrah. They also attended the races at Oaklawn Park, Hot Springs, Saturday.

staff of psychiatrists. This may be because he specializes in what is called "throwaway humor," casual pleasantries aimed at stirring chuckles instead of the explosive yuks which are the goal of high-pressure buff artists, such as Milton Berle.

During a 70-minute morning broadcast, interspersed with phonograph records, Walter generates a minimum of 30 low-pressure wisecracks on news of the day, and tosses them off spontaneously. But it takes him an hour-and-a-half of hard writing to develop and whip into pattern the 20 gags he packs into a five-minute ABC network program.

"I can't write them by a formula," he said. "But after a few years you find you can write them by reflex. One joke sets the stage for the next one."

"I mumble out loud as I write, because the material has to sound right as well as read right."

Unlike many comedians, Kiernan doesn't keep a card file of jokes.

"When you've used a joke, it's better to throw it away," he said. "You can't keep yourself alive long trying to keep old jokes alive."

He avoids dialect jokes, atom bomb jokes ("it's too serious to joke about"), or deformity words — such as blind drunk, blind date, cock-eyed or cross-eyed.

"Anyone who has a deformity doesn't think it's funny," said Kiernan.

What is his funniest joke? He doesn't know, but the one copied most often by other humorists was his story of how he made an electric blanket by using some wiring from an old toaster but had to give it up "because it started popping me out of bed buttered on both sides."

"Everybody seemed to pick that one up," said Kiernan wryly. "They were all being thrown out of bed covered with marmalade or toast ed on both legs."

Mother Wants to Keep Her 'Quads'

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., March 22 — (AP) — Mrs. C. O. Hargreaves is "really crazy" about her quadruplet daughters but she's still afraid she may have to offer them for adoption "for their own welfare."

"I'm very worried," she said today. "We really need help."

Word that the financially-stricken Hargreaves family was considering offering the five-month-old daughters for adoption was announced yesterday, and reports of ready offers of assistance sprang up immediately.

But Mrs. Hargreaves said today those reports were greatly exaggerated, and that the only definite offer of help came from a Hamilton (Ont.) radio station.

"They wanted to know what we needed in the way of clothing, food and the like," she said.

Her husband gets $20 monthly in take-home pay as a laborer at the Great Lakes Power company here. Mrs. Hargreaves said, adding that was insufficient to care for the quads, themselves and two other children.

"We had reached the end of our rope," she said, "when we wrote a Toronto paper we were considering offering the babies for adoption."

"We're exhausted, physically and financially."

"We haven't put them up for adoption yet. That's the last thing we want to do, but I'm very worried."

John McLeod, legal advisor to the family, said flatly he hadn't had any offer of adoption or support as had been reported.

"No offer of any kind of assistance has come to me from any quarter since the parents talked of offering the children for adoption," McLeod said.

However, there was unofficial reports of offers of funds to the family.

With money worries piling up, the father, C. O. Hargreaves, a laborer, had speculated on finding foster parents for the babies.

In addition to Jennifer Ann, Janice Barbara, Joyce Carol and Joan Diane, there are two other children in the family.

Acheson to Consider UN Proposal

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today he will consider very carefully a suggestion by U.N. Secretary General Trygve Lie for meetings of top East-West diplomats aimed at starting a 20-year peace program.

Acheson did not, however, go out of his way to encourage the Lie proposal. At least some of his hearers gained the impression he was giving it rather formal treatment, in his recent policy declarations Acheson has held that increased non-Communist power in the world, rather than any immediate meetings with the Russians, offers the best way to secure peace.

In a speech here last night, Lie proposed a 20-year peace program to relax international "tensions" and "bring the cold war to an end."

As a means toward that end, the U.N. official called for periodic meetings of foreign ministers or even heads of governments to discuss controversial issues.

Lie noted that the U.N. charter provides for such top level meetings within the security council. But, he said none has been held so far.

Acheson said that of course any suggestion made by Lie would be given most careful and serious consideration. He said that was true of Lie's present suggestion. He noted that it is Lie's responsibility to make such suggestions.

A reporter wanted to know how special meetings of the council would vary from regular council

Dagwood Seems to Be in Little More Trouble

Hollywood, March 22 — (AP) — Police early today arrested two men on drunk charges and identified one of them as Arthur Lake, the movies' "Dagwood."

Arresting officers identified the other as Paul W. Sebring, president of a dogfood company. The men were picked up in front of Sebring's home where neighbors complained they were creating a disturbance.

Both were released on $20 bail pending hearing in municipal court later today.

Officers said Sebring scuffled with photographers who tried to take pictures when the men were released.

Lake has been in the movies since 1924. In recent years, he has personified the comic strip husband in the "Blondie" series, one of the industry's consistent money-makers.

Daniel Boone led axmen blazing the Wilderness Road through Cumberland Gap in 1775.

meetings. Acheson said he did not know because no such meetings ever have been held.

When he was asked whether Lie had requested to see him while in Washington, Acheson said he had not received such a request. Lie called at the state department today and talked with several officials.

Several other questions came up at the news conference which was Acheson's first since his round of foreign policy speeches in California.

He was asked whether he had anything to say on "re-invigorating" a bi-partisan approach to foreign policy. He said he did not like the word re-invigorating because he does not think bi-partisanship has fallen off. He said that the state department is continually working on the problem.

In response to another query, he said he had nothing to say now on his projected meeting with foreign ministers Bevin of Britain and Schuman of France.

Crime Wave in Britain Has Resulted in Argument Over How Tough Law Should Be

By DeWitt McKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's epidemic of crimes of violence, similar in many respects to the post-war problems in numerous other countries, has produced a heated public argument on how tough the law should get in dealing with the outrages, which are largely the work of youthful gangsters.

The debate has been revolving about whether flogging with the cat-o-nine-tails — abolished two years ago under the socialist regime — shall be revived. Judges are demanding that it be restored.

Lord Chief Justice Goddard himself recently declared he believed the violence was due to the fact "that men know they can no longer be whipped for it."

However, the conscience of the Socialist government yesterday brought out a flat refusal for a revival of flogging. Instead of the lash, more policemen are to be provided. In this connection it's interesting to note that a couple of years ago handing for murder was suspended under the Socialists, only to be revised six months later.

You have to know your England to appreciate just what the present crime wave means. During my long residence in Britain I made a study of crime and even wrote a book on the London underworld with a notorious reformed burglar, who was characterized to me by Scotland Yard as the cleverest burglar the country ever had known.

One of the amazing aspects of police administration was that "hobbies", as the constables are called, never arrived guns excepting by special assignment in connection with a desperate mission.

The police weapon is a truncheon which, more than incidentally, the bobby can throw with the accuracy of an Australian Aborigine handling a boomerang.

Because the police didn't carry firearms the underworld, on the whole, responded in kind. Robberies and similar crimes rarely involved the use of guns by the perpetrators. Indeed there was no call for shooting, because under the law a householder couldn't employ a gun against an intruder unless the householder thought the life of himself or a member of his household was in danger.

In short, the mere fact that you saw a burglar climbing out of a window with all your silver and jewelry wouldn't entitle you to shoot at him. If you wounded a burglar under those circumstances, you were in for it, my lad, under the stern English law.

Actually I've heard an English ex-convict argue that it isn't sporting for a householder to shoot at an unarmed thief. One must admit there's something in that claim.

I suspect that the demand for revival of flogging is based on these circumstances which made England relatively free of crimes of violence. The law doesn't want to see the police and the underworld armed, for that means war and bloodshed.

Furthermore, once an armed underworld has been created, and the custom of carrying guns has been established, it is difficult for the authorities to wipe out the evil, America knows that.

Flogging of course has been used for punishment in many lands since time immemorial. So far as concerns England the need for it decreased until it wasn't often necessary to inflict it, one reason being that the law was on the books and evil doers were afraid. Now the lord chief justice says he believes the abolishment of flogging has bred violence.

The question of how to handle this epidemic type of crime presents a great problem to many countries. There is a tendency to blame the development of this violence on the war. Undoubtedly war has had a terribly bad influence, but that is far from being a complete answer.

They were picked up later and jailed on a charge of larceny of a vehicle. The men were identified as Joseph C. Bowman, 26, and Hugh D. Lomas, 23.

Two to Be Questioned in Rape Case

Van Buren, March 22 —(P)—Two Kansas City men were to be questioned here today by Columbia, Mo., officers in connection with the rape-slitting of a 13-year-old baby sister there last week.

Van Buren, March 22 —(P)—Two Kansas City men were to be questioned here today by Columbia, Mo., officers in connection with the rape-slitting of a 13-year-old baby sister there last week.

Prosecuting Attorney Carl F. Papp, who said the cooperation of Columbia citizens had been splendid, moved today to obtain further aid as he outlined in newspaper advertisements a plan by which informants may submit clues secretly by sending them to a post-office box — a plan similar to that used by the Jackson county grand jury in its recent murder investigations.

Local officers also had under consideration a proposal by a local taxicab company to make available a fleet of 30 radio-equipped cabs for patrol or road block service in an emergency, and were offered additional aid by the city council action approving appointment of emergency police officers for a 30-day period. The council already had approved addition of five patrolmen and a new patrol car to the regular police force.

A $1,000 reward offered yesterday for the arrest and conviction of the slayer had passed $1,650 today and was expected to reach $2,000 by tonight.

The local officers made the trip to Arkansas in a highway patrol plane. They were to land at Port Smith, and drive to nearby Van Buren, in the party were Chief of Police E. M. Pond, Sgt. Harry H. Wells of the highway patrol and Jack Beasley, deputy sheriff of Boone county.

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes

Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes
Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: At the behest of Andrew Palmer, private detective, Martin Queripel is trying to clear her name Paul Moody of the charge of murdering her father, Wendell Palmer. Fingerprints found on the telephone used to bludgeon Palmer are Moody's, police say. Queripel goes to the police Crime Laboratory to question detective James Stivers who discovered the prints and photographed them. Queripel asks to see the telephone from which the prints were taken. As the private detective studies the telephone, he is amazed to find that the prints are exactly alike.

MARTIN QUERIPHEL picked up the tapes carrying the eight fingerprints labeled "telephone base." He studied these prints of Paul Moody's hands, then held them close to the cellophane telephone and examined them with intensity.

Finally he looked up at Stivers and said:

"Could you have these two tapes blown up for me?"

"As a matter of fact, I've already done just that," said Stivers. "I had the job done to show in court."

With a crafty smile, Queripel asked:

"Could you let me put my eight fingers on the bottom of that telephone and take the prints of them and lift them?"

Stivers laughed: "You know I can't."

"Not even if I said 'Please!'" Queripel wheedled.

"Not even if you said 'Pretty please!'" Nobody rubs that telephone till it reaches court."

Queripel looked like a child desiring something terribly desired. Suddenly he moved to Stivers' desk, lifted his telephone and studied the base. It was covered with a kind of thick felt to soften any shock and any vibration.

He compared Stivers' instrument with the base of the Palmer telephone, and said:

"These phones are exactly alike, aren't they?"

Stivers nodded.

Queripel wheedled again. "Will you let me press my fingers underneath your telephone, and take the prints?"

Stivers nodded with a patient smile.

Queripel added: "And blow them up to the size of these blown-up Moody prints?"

Stivers again nodded his head and took from his kit the necessary powders, brushes, and tapes.

WHEN he was ready, Queripel said: "First, let's reconstruct the crime as I see it. It seems to me that Wendell Palmer suddenly realized the murderous intentions of his visitor. He made a dash for the telephone. The unknown visitor tried to take it from him."

"That seems to be the way it was," said Stivers. "The handset was covered with fingerprints, but they were all smudged up so that I couldn't distinguish them. Here are my photographs. You see there's only one clear mark, that thumbprint up close to the mouthpiece."

"Whose thumb is that?" Queripel asked, pointing.

"I don't know. It isn't Moody's. It isn't Palmer's. It isn't his daughter's or her friend Miss Fennell's. It might be the butler's or the gardener's. But both were away from the house. I was going to verify it later. There's no knowing yet whose it is."

"It might even be—" Queripel caught the word "Kelso's" before it clicked at his lips. Stivers did not notice the suppression. Queripel asked:

"Not much alike, eh?" Stivers asked.

"Not much," said Queripel. "Now could I have another look at those Moody prints you took in his studio?"

Stivers fetched them out.

Stivers had to gloat a little: "They seem to tell the story, don't they?"

Martin Queripel nodded his head and smiled.

FTC Says Claims Made by Antihistamine Producers Are False, May Take Action

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, March 21 —(P)—The government has teed off on pel said: "Let's get on with the reconstruction of the crime. You're the dead man."

"Thanks."

"I'm the murderer."

"That's better. Nice of you to confess."

"You're Wendell Palmer. You grab the handset off the telephone base. I seize the base. You twist it out of my hand by turning your body—so. Now you dial 'O' for the operator. You are going to yell 'Police!' and give your address when she answers. I find myself back of you with no weapon handy. I either have no gun or no time or perhaps no desire to draw my gun and fire. I see the telephone base. I pick it up, lift it high in air with both hands and bring it down with all my might on your head before you can contact the operator. You fall on the floor and die."

"Can't we leave that to the imagination?" Stivers pleaded.

"Yes, but it leaves me, the murderer, with the telephone base like this. I put it down, and quickly replace the handset while the operator's voice calls in vain. I am too excited to think of the fingerprints I've left on the base of the phone and my thumbs make no prints you see because only their sides touch the curve of the top of the base. See?"

"I see. I guess that was just about the way it was. You're some playwright and a real actor."

"Now," said Queripel, "I'll ask you to lift the eight fingerprints I've left on this telephone."

THIS was a matter of only a few minutes, then Queripel studied the convoluted dust sticking to the tape. He compared it with the blown-up prints of Paul Moody's eight fingers.

"Not much alike, eh?" Stivers asked.

"Not much," said Queripel. "Now could I have another look at those Moody prints you took in his studio?"

Stivers fetched them out.

Stivers had to gloat a little: "They seem to tell the story, don't they?"

Martin Queripel nodded his head and smiled.

Pilot Believes Saucer is U. S. Experiment

Memphis Tenn., March 22 —(P)—The airline pilots who reported a flying saucer over Arkansas insist that "what he saw was not a meteor, a jet or something imaginary."

Capt. Jack Adams told newsmen here yesterday "I believe it was some kind of experimental type aircraft that has been kept a secret by the air force."

He added that it was "definitely some kind of aircraft in controlled flight" moving at tremendous speed.

Adams and Co-pilot G. W. Anderson radioed a report of the strange object Monday night while approaching Little Rock, Ark. They were flying at about 2,000 feet on fair methods of business competition if those methods hurt the public.

For example, it can step in if it thinks a firm is deceiving the public in the way it advertises its products. It's on those grounds that it's stepped into the antitrust picture.

While it has only a small medical staff of its own for investigations, the FTC can call upon other agencies of the government for help.

Turkey Hunting Banned in More Counties

Little Rock, March 22 —(P)—The Arkansas Game and Fish commission has added 15 counties to the sections in which wild turkeys may not be hunted this year.

In 14 of the counties the action was taken because of "the critical condition of turkeys dislocated by overflow waters." The 15th county—Johnson—was closed because of a restocking program underway here.

A special bow and arrow hunting season for turkey is now in effect. The regular hunting season comes next month.

Besides Johnson, the counties closed by the commission in a special emergency order yesterday are all in eastern Arkansas. They are the Memphis to Houston Chicago and Southern Air Lines route.

Adams said that as the saucer passed over "we could see eight or ten spots of light that looked like a circle of lighted windows or ports."

The air forces has called the numerous flying saucer reports either mass hysteria, meteors or misunderstandings of natural phenomena.

Reminded of this, Anderson said "we've heard and read a lot about flying saucers and were as skeptical as anyone else, but when you see something with your own eyes, you have to believe it."

Girl, Aged 12, Saved From a Rapist

San Jose, Calif., March 22 —(UP)—Blue-eyed Sally Horner, 12, of Camden, N. J., was "hysterical" with happiness today at being rescued from a convicted rapist she said had held her prisoner for 21 months.

Her tearful plea "send the FBI after me" in a coast-to-coast telephone call to a sister last night led police to a highway court where they found the girl, Florence "Sally" Horner, and Frank La Salle, 56, who is under indictment by a Camden grand jury for her abduction.

Sally, a husky, honey-haired schoolgirl, had been missing since June 14, 1948 when her widowed mother kissed her goodbye and put her aboard an Atlantic City, N. J. bound bus with a man who posed as the father of two of Sally's schoolmates with whom she was to spend her vacation.

Police said Sally slipped away from the trailer in which she and La Salle arrived here and tried to telephone her mother yesterday.

are: Clay, Greene, Craighead, Mississippi, Poinsett, Cross, Woodruff, Crittenden, St. Francis, Lee, Phillips, Arkansas Desha and Cherokee.

But Mrs. Horner had her phone disconnected two months ago when she lost her job as a seamstress in a Camden garment factory.

Sally then gave the long distance operator the number of her older sister, Mrs. Susan Panara, at Beverly, N. J.

Goes to Jail for Stealing Manhole Covers

Little Rock, March 22 —(P)—A man here was sentenced to the penitentiary for theft of 67 manhole covers.

The defendant, B. J. Balton, pleaded guilty. A two-year sentence was imposed yesterday.

Police said Balton related he hauled the heavy covers by truck and sold them as junk for $3.00. The covers had a replacement value of more than $4,000.

Tucker Files Suit Against Five Persons

Chicago, March 22 —(P)—Preston T. Tucker, president of the defunct Tucker corporation, has demanded that Attorney General J. Howard McGrath dismiss three federal attorneys who prosecuted the mail fraud case against him.

At the same time, Tucker filed a suit in superior court against the government attorneys' and five other persons for $1,000,000 damages, charging malicious prosecution.

But Mrs. Horner had her phone disconnected two months ago when she lost her job as a seamstress in a Camden garment factory.

Sally then gave the long distance operator the number of her older sister, Mrs. Susan Panara, at Beverly, N. J.

a couple of big drug companies — and may do so on more — for the claims they make for antihistamine, the alleged cold-stopper.

The federal trade commission (FTC) complains that the advertisements of the following two companies are false and misleading: Bristol-Myers, maker of "Resistab", and Anahist, maker of "Anahist." Both companies say their advertising claims are thoroughly supported.

The FTC said these are the first government complaints to come out of its investigation into the advertising claims made for Anti-histamine products. Other are being scrutinized.

Histamine is a chemical produced by your body tissues. There's a theory that when you overproduce histamine it affects your tissues in such a way that you become an easy mark for a cold.

So antihistamine, as its name indicates, is supposed to offset the bad effects of histamine. But doctors disagree as to whether there's proof that it does.

Until last fall, antihistamines were considered too powerful for use without a doctor's prescription. Then some antihistamines were produced and were milder or thought to be milder.

A number of drug companies began to sell various brands of antihistamines. But many doctors continued to write their own prescriptions to be sure of the doses their patients took.

The FTC charges the two companies have misrepresented the curing powers of their antihistamine products in treating the common cold.

Those two products, the FTC complaint says, are neither a cure, preventative nor competent treatment for the common cold. Further, in its statement about the case, the FTC says:

Both Resistab and Anahist, taken as directed, "may be unsafe and produce injury or harm to the user" and the advertisements "have actually misled and deceived a substantial portion of the purchasing public."

This will probably be a long-drawn-out argument. The only thing that has happened so far is a complaint against the companies by the FTC. The companies will have a chance to answer the complaint.

Then there'll probably be a hearing by the FTC at which the companies can argue their case. If then the FTC decides the companies are all right, that ends the complaint doesn't stand.

But if the FTC decides formally after the hearing that the companies have been misleading the public, it will order them to stop. But even that isn't final if the companies want to appeal to the U.S. courts.

The courts' decision would be final. But until there is a court decision, the companies are free to continue the advertising claims which brought the FTC complaint in the first place.

The FTC was created by congress in 1914 as a five-man commission. It has a staff of about 650 people and several jobs to do. For example:

It has the job of enforcing the anti-trust laws, or policing them; of preventing businessmen from conspiring to interfere with interstate trade; or preventing untruthful advertising; and of stopping un-

DOROTHY DIX

Second Fiddle

Dear Miss Dix: Do you think it is possible for a widower to love his second wife as much as his first? I am 20 years of age and very fond of a widower who is five years my senior. He is very dependable and seems devoted to me, (all every time I think of this other woman I feel as if I will only play second fiddle in his life. Yet in my estimation he is the finest man I have ever known.

BETTY LOU

Answer: Very often a man loves his second wife better than he did his first. It all depends upon circumstances and which of the two women he finds most congenial. Which one is really his soulmate, as the phrase goes.

Start New Chapter

It is ridiculous to say that you feel that you will play second fiddle in this man's life. His first marriage is a closed episode. You start a new chapter in his life. And it is foolish for you to be jealous of his first wife. You by the vice-president, Mrs. Hard. The devotionals were read by the hostess and the prayer was given by Mrs. Dora Norvel. The song, "Arkansas," was sung by the group and the roll call was answered with "What my Family reads."

The garden leader gave an interesting report on planting gardens.

During the recreation period, prizes were won by Mrs. Ben Stroud and Mrs. J. R. Perrell.
The club will meet in April at the home of Mrs. Perrell.
After the meeting was adjourned, the hostess served ice cream, cookies, hot chocolate, and coffee to six members.

Sweet Home

The Sweet Home home demonstration club met in March at the home of Mrs. Herman Biggers.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Zack Stone. The group repeated the club creed and sang the song of the month, "Tell Me Why." The devotionals, Galatians 6: 6-12, was given by the hostess, followed by a prayer by Mrs. W. E. Lee. The roll was answered with "What My Family reads." The minutes were read and approved. The child guidance leader, Mrs. Dorris Carman, gave some very interesting information on child development.

The group discussed paying for the Year Books and the President was asked to make arrangements for a one-act play that will be given some time soon. The surprise package was won by Mrs. W. P. Spears.

After the meeting was adjourned refreshments were served to eighteen members and Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood.

The next meeting will be on April 21 with Mrs. Floyd Wood.

takes money to keep up, so he doesn't have hysterics every month when the bills come in. He knows that a woman who has to do her housework can't always look like a fashion plate and be waiting for him with a glad sweet smile. He knows there are times when a woman is tired and cross and has headache and is grouchy, just as he is. So he takes matrimony on the chin instead of the nerves, and thinks that it strikes a pretty good average after all.

And every first wife leaves her successor a legacy in tenderness and patience from her husband that she never had. For there are very few men who ever look down on the faces of their dead wives without a bitter regret for harsh words they have said, for impatience that they have shown for the little things that they might have done and did not do that would have made life happier for them.

So marry your man, my dear, and be glad that you are No. 2.

Dear Miss Dix: A man and a girl are engaged, but no plans have been made for the marriage at any definite time. Both of them are attractive and have been accustomed to a lot of attention from the opposite sex. The man's business is a traveling position which takes him out of town much of the time. This leaves the girl lonely and, as she is popular, she asked her sweetheart's permission to make dates with other boys. He agreed and decided to go out with other girls himself. Will this weaken their love and attraction for each other? What will happen after marriage when this going out with others must necessarily be stopped, and their company is not sufficient to meet each other's needs?

L. A. K.

Answer: Marriage is one thing and an engagement is another. As I understand your proposition, the reason this girl and boy leave other companionship is because they are separated and lonely, and that as long as they were together they were perfectly satisfied with each other's company and desired no other.

That will still doubtless be the case when and if they marry. Married people are in less danger of boring each other than are engaged people because they have everything in common and can spend endless hours talking over trivial details of their daily lives and discussing the most fascinating of all subjects — themselves.

I do not see how it will weaken the tie between the girl and the young man for them to go about with others during their enforced separation. Real love, the sort that any man and woman ought to have to marry on, immunizes its subject and makes him or her safe.

no matter to what charms and graces he or she is exposed. A man and woman genuinely in love may and admire them and still not waver an iota in loyalty to those to whom they are betrothed.

Dear Miss Dix: Two men want to marry me. A is brilliant. Has promise of advancement. Likes the things that I do and his tastes are congenial with mine. B has no job. No prospects. Doesn't care for any of the things that I enjoy. He will probably never amount to anything. Yet I love him. Please help me to decide between the two.

PERPLEXED

Answer: B has only a physical attraction for you. That won't last and as soon as it is over he will bore you to death. He is a bad bet.
